Now that so many notorious, if not celebrated persons—and the line of demarkation is sometimes thin, aside from pure morality—are being tried at Nuernberg, the old question, whether capital punishment is efficacious as a crime-deterrent, has risen again. With all the postwar hatreds of outraged and ravaged peoples poisoning the emotional effluvia of Europe, this is, perhaps, a poor time to revive such an argument; but it is there, just the same. Reasoners whose philosophy transcends Old Testament jurisprudence are wondering, more or less audibly, what good it will do to hang Yamashita, Goering and half a thousand lesser war criminals. Their questioning is not purely sentiment nor even particularly humanitarian. Basing their conclusions on History's report as to crime, they have to admit that the Mosaic law has proved a failure; that killing a guilty man because an innocent one has been killed does not balance accounts any more than a slate is cleaned by placing a second smudge on its surface opposite the first one. Murders have not decreased as a result of a penal code based on the exact reparation of "an eye for an eye" and a "tooth for a tooth." After more than 2,000 years of application it has provided no remedy; the only claim you can make for capital punishment is that more murders might have occurred without it—which is, of course, an unproveable assertion.

Please acquit me, before we go any farther, of trying to save Japan's or Germany's homicidal villians. According to their own code they deserve death a hundred times over; a justified world-opinion will demand and probably effect their execution. It will give no tender heart excuse for tears when they swing on the gibbet. And it will satisfy something—bestial, perhaps, yet natural and understandable—to see them there.

But the question remains: Can it do any good? Will it stop other rascals, bloated with power, in doing likewise? I am afraid not.

Law does not greatly condition behavior. Smugglers, bootleggers and black marketeers have showed that. Love and burglars laugh at locksmiths—or marriage laws; and penitentiaries increase faster than the most civilized population.

What, then, is the answer? How I wish I knew—that anybody knew! It may be there is no concrete answer in our social decalogue; that we shall have to fashion one from groping and experimental efforts at redemption, inspired by Jesus' admonition, "Go and sin no more," which is the spirit of our parole system; from parent-teacher cooperation, recreation centers, scout camps, etc.; none of which, of course, would work at Nuernberg. Let them hang the Goerings and the Yamashitas if they like, but let's find a more efficient way of crime protection than the execution chamber. It is without doubt, the most medieval and the least successful instrument of modern civilization.

LITERARY GUILD TO MEET

Members of the Catholic Women's Literary Guild will meet this afternoon at 2:15 at the home of Mrs. Edward Nooney, 1345 Crane street.

Mrs. James Doherty will review the book, What Other Answer?, by Dorothy Grant. The book is autobiographical and the author, a niece of John Moody.

Another review will be given by Mrs. Philip Miebach, of the much-discussed book, Mitri, by Daniel Sargent. This is the story of the Russian prince Demetrius Gallitzen who lived at the time of the French Revolution and who was the first priest, wholly educated in the United States and ordained by the first North American bishop, John Carroll.

City to Annex "Maloney 40 Acres"

Vernon Barker Replaces Roy Gray

A petition to annex the "Maloney 40 acres" to the city of Menlo Park was received by the City Council Tuesday night, filed by Ross H. Chamberlain, Ltd., well-known local contractor. The property which is uninhabited, adjoins the recently annexed Stanford Gardens tract owned by Floyd Lowe. The petition was ananimously accepted and proceedings are underway to annex the tract. A public hearing is scheduled for Tuesday, January 29.

While the annexation of Dibble hospital, for all practical puposes is complete, final legal steps are underway to conclude the transition. City attorney James T. O'Keefe Jr., explained that there are only two registered voters at Dibble and according to law, the City has the right to initiate annexation proceedings. O'Keefe then read a resolution which was unanimously accepted by the Council. A hearing is slated for January 29 at 8 p.m.

Councilman Roy Gray informed his fellow members that his business affairs demanded the majority of his time and felt that he should make room for someone with more time to carry on with the many important things to be done. He presented his resignation and at the same time suggested that Vernon Barker, planning commission member, take his place. Gray's resignation was accepted with regrets and Vernon Barker, who was in the audience, was sworn in immediately, taking the place of Gray.

The vacancy in the planning commission was filled by Joseph Perry, who lives in Felton Gables.

Mrs. Lucy Orendorff, owner of a small frame building on Merrill avenue near Ravenswood, appeared before the Council and asked why the building she wanted to convert into a restaurant was considered such a fire hazard, adding that several other restaurants in Menlo Park presenting worse hazards, were allowed to open. She accused Chief of Police Jack Yount of remarking that "he would block her business license if she tried to apply for one." Claiming that the building had the approval of the building inspector, whom she described as most considerate, and also the fire marshall, Mrs. Orendorff said she couldn't understand what business it was of the Chief of Police to interfere. She asserted that Chief Yount's actions were both "malicious and meddlesome", and protested the treatment and discrimination shown.

Chief Jack Yount, in his defense, denied having said he would block her license but stated that he said he would not issue a license until the building met with the requirements outlined at a previous council discussion regarding the property. He said he understood the building was to have been stuccoed and a fire-resistant roof installed.

Mayor Charles Burgess asked Mr. Orendorff if she had applied for a license and she said no, and added that she had changed her plans, sold most of her equipment, and would never "do anything" in Menlo Park.

Burgess explained that unless she applied for a license, the Council had no jurisdiction in the matter.

According to a report of a recent planning commission meeting, a discussion on the proposed Community Memorial Building will be held January 18 in the City Hall and all interested parties are invited to attend.

The commission is also endeavoring to secure more parking area at the SP depot for commuter's automobiles.

An ordinance which would guarantee the continuation of the long-range street maintenance program was unanimously approved and introduced. Mayor Burgess explained that the ordinance called for appropriation of $14,000 yearly for street work, to be apportioned according to the street area of the city. The plan is already in operation, Burgess said and no increase in taxes is necessary. The greater part of the $14,000 is derived from state gasoline taxes.

The J. F. Archibald company was authorized to kill grass and weeds in the sidewalk strips throughout the city at a cost of $450. Work will start around Jan. 15.

Royal Hodge reported that the building owned by Guido Lenchi, 1027 Santa Cruz avenue, was found sub-standard and a 30-day notice was given to improve the structure to meet the minimum requirements of the health, and fire departments.

Next meeting will be Tuesday, January 22, 7:30 p.m., city hall.

Oh Where, Oh Where

Christmas and the holiday season were spoiled for Captain W. R. Gatling, a patient in ward 16, at Dibble hospital, all because his little pet dog, Joey, is missing.

To anyone else, Joey is just another fox terrier but he means a great deal to his master who is very lonesome without him.

Captain Gatling took Joey when his mother died and reared the tiny puppy on a formula worked out for him by a veterinarian. The little dog throve on the diet and learned to sit up holding his little bottle between his front paws.

He has traveled over 5,000 miles by automobile with his owner.

The little dog is white with black spots, has long legs and a bobbed tail. He is seven months old and weighs six pounds. Anyone finding this dog and re-turning him to Capt. Gatling will not only receive a reward but will make the owner very happy.

Having started off the new year with a grand formal dance and having it such a huge success, the junior girls and the boys from the hospital have asked for another formal affair.

St. Valentine"s day seems to be very appropriate, so out will come our best gowns again and an extra press on GI ties and we are all set. Orchestra, dance contests are planned.

★

How glad we are to have Mrs. Thomas Cuff back with us again after having spent such a pleasant trip to southern California and Mexico.

★

Funny how long it takes to put up a Christmas tree—every ornament having to be just so, then, the excitement of Christmas being over and the new year here, how fast the tree comes down. The boys were quite sad that they couldn't be in on the job of dismantling but Mrs. Virginia Stegman, Mrs. Kay Sterns and a couple of patients from the hospital had the time of their lives "untrimming" the tree.

★

What a swell job of waxing the boys did on the AWVS floor. Makes one feel as if he is dancing on glass.

★

Our thanks to Mrs. Ellen Ostby, who does so much for the USO's yet still finds time to take over here on Sunday mornings.

★

The waffles everyone enjoyed Sunday night, were made by Mrs. Lucy Orendorff, who worked so hard to make our buffet supper so delicious and attractive on formal dance night.

HOME AGAIN

$200,000 Project Opens Santa Cruz Ave. Development

Faith in the future development of Menlo Park and Santa Cruz avenue was demonstrated this week by the announcement that 275 front feet of business property was purchased by Ross Chamberlain, well-known local builder and H. E. Goss, a real estate operator. On the newly acquired property, the purchasers plan $200,000 in improvements. One of the new buildings for which a $25,000 building permit was issued, is now under construction.

The real estate sales were handled by Charles Andrews, associated with Victor Greisser, local broker.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Feldman, former residents of Menlo Park, were the sellers of 100 feet; Frank Brady, Charles Brady and Katherine Ahlert, descendants of a pioneer Menlo Park family, disposed of 100 feet of their holdings; and the Ross Estate Company sold a 75-foot frontage at the corner of Santa Cruz avenue and Chestnut street.

Plans are now underway for the widening of Santa Cruz avenue and two huge parking areas at the rear of the business property.

While details have not been revealed as yet, several more store buildings are to be built on the avenue in the near future.

John A. Sullivan To Open Office

John A. Sullivan, 1275 Crane St., announced this week his intention of opening a law office in Menlo Park.

According to Mr. Sullivan, the steady growth of Menlo Park warrants a law office and because no office space is available in town at the present time, he will obtain a license and operate a law practice as well as notary public service from his Crane street home until such time as he can secure an office.

Mr. Sullivan is well known in local circles having been a member of the Chamber of Commerce, Planning Commssion. He is first vice president of the Lions club and an active member of the St. Joseph's Mens' Club.

Your City's Business

By Charles P. Burgess

A question frequently asked 'How does the tax rate in Menlo Park compare with that of neighboring cities?" Comparison is not just a case of adding tax rates, for some cities collect their own taxes on valuations set by themselves, which are considerably different from those placed on the same property by the county assessor. Equating the city rates to those rates collected by the county (with ratios determined by the State Board of Equalization), we arrive at the following comparable total tax rates:

Hillsborough	$ 4.08
Atherton	4.02 to 4.30
San Bruno	4.49
Palo Alto	4.62
MENLO PARK	4.78
Daly City	4.90
San Mateo	4.92
So. San Francisco	4.92
Burlingame	5.06
Belmont	5.44
Redwood City	5.45
San Carlos	5.60

The two lowest rates are for very wealthy cities, where assessed valuation is extremely high in relation to population. Palo Alto pays a considerable part of its municipal expenses from the profits of the city-owned water, gas and electric systems. Menlo Park does well to achieve fifth place with an assessed valuation per capita some 11 percent below the county average. At the other end of the scale San Carlos is high because of a $2.05 tax to finance its elementary schools.

Trustees Vote Million and Half Bond Issue

To care for financing the buildings needed to accomodate the 400 over-load in the Sequoia high school and for a rapidly increasing enrollment in the Sequoia district, the board of trustees, at its meeting last Friday night, voted to present a bond issue of $1,500,000 to the citizens of the district for the approval.

The present Sequoia plant was designed to accomodate 1600 pupils, it was explained, and the enrollment now totals 2000. Careful study of elementary enrollments and building statistics indicates an enrollment of 3200 in five years.

The $1,500,000 will provide for 3200 students, 2500 of these in the Sequoia plant and 350 each in the Menlo Park-East Palo Alto and the San Carlos-Belmont plants.

From the standpoint of economy and the ability to furnish the southern area and the San Carlos-Belmont area with the first units of schools, the board of trustees are asking the citizens to approve the $1,500,000 bond issue.

Because of the present low interest rate on bonds, 1½ cents, and the great possibilities that interest rates will be higher in three or four years, the board felt it economical to raise the needed money now rather than having a bond issue this time and another in three or four years.

The proposed plan cares for building the Sequoia plant large enough to furnish a complete program in vocational and cultural subjects. All the pupils in the district from the start will be offered a splendid shop, homemaking, music, art, commercial and college preparatory program.

The plan provides a basic program in the southern area plant and the San Carlos-Belmont plant. The first units in each plant will include 12 academic classrooms, shop, gymnasium and an auditorium.

Pupils wishing more than the basic subjects, may enroll in the Sequoia plant.

In time, when the enrollment justifies, the southern area plant and the San Carlos-Belmont plant can be built to a point of offering as complete a program as is offered in the Sequoia high school, according to A. C. Argo, superintendent.

Make sure your home has an ample-size water heater—at least 30 gallon capacity

The next time you buy an automatic water heater for your home or for the new home you are planning, provide an adequate water supply for a new automatic washing machine or electric dishwasher. Hot water and plenty of it, activates soap into billions of energetic cleansing bubbles. Then steamy torrents of sterilizing rinse-water restore clothes to bright newness and dinner dishes to shining cleanliness. It costs very little more at the start to buy an ample family-size water heater to take care of washday, bathroom and kitchen hot water needs. And operating cost too, is very little more. Remember your family uses lots of hot water. Tests show that the average family of four uses more than 50 gallons a day. A small size water heater wears out from overwork in many a home Buy wisely... buy a bigger water heater next time.
